Anthropological analysis of skeletal remains (including preparation and processing) for external clients: Prices effective in the year 2021

Anthropological laboratory analysis: The price estimate is determined by the state of preservation of the skeletal remains to be evaluated, including a direct correlation to the number of skeletal elements. The degree of preservation reflects the general assessment possibilities (appropriate choice of methods for assessing demographic characteristics and indicators of pathological processes). The prices set primarily reflect the degree of difficulty of the individual analysis components and their duration.
